Accreditation Is Continuous Improvement

Cognia defines continuous improvement as "an embedded behavior rooted in an institution's culture that constantly focuses on conditions, processes, and practices to improve teaching and learning." Accreditation is a continuous improvement process that helps an institution improve teaching and learning. Using Cognia's Performance Standards, the institution examines its current effectiveness as well as its capacity and capability to achieve its vision and goals for the future.

Cognia believes all institutions can improve no matter how well they are currently performing. In the same manner that educators are expected to understand the unique needs of every learner and tailor the education experience to drive student success, every institution must be empowered to map out and embrace their unique improvement journey. Cognia expects institutions to use the results and analyses of data from diverse sources to select and implement actions that drive improvement in education quality and student performance. Cognia recognizes that each institution's improvement journey is unique and that we can serve you best by providing key findings specific to your institution.

Around the turn of the 21st century, accreditation transformed its focus and process from a ten-year evaluation focused on the accomplishments of an institution's past decade to a forward-focused process examining what an institution is striving to accomplish in the next five years. Modern accreditation examines the current and future capabilities and capacities of an institution in the context of its mission, purpose, and direction. The Standards for Accreditation define how a good institution behaves and provides the criteria to focus improvement efforts that will lead to growing learners, teachers, and leaders.

In reality, modern accreditation is a continuous improvement process. At least every six years, the institution formally engages the Standards for Accreditation to reflect and examine its progress toward its desired future as expressed through its mission, purpose, and strategic direction.

Cognia's purpose-driven, strategic process is the most widely used continuous improvement process in the world.

Cognia Performance Accreditation and the Engagement Review

This report contains the findings of the Engagement Review. The findings of the report are organized in five sections: Assurances, Rating of Analyses, Cognia Performance Standards, Insights from the Review, and a Summary of Findings that includes Noteworthy Practices and Areas for Improvement.

Accreditation is pivotal to leveraging education quality and continuous improvement. Using a set of rigorous research-based standards, the accreditation process examines the whole institution—the program, the cultural context, and the community of stakeholders—to determine how well the parts work together to meet the needs of learners. Through the Cognia Accreditation Process, highly skilled and trained evaluators gather first-hand evidence and information pertinent to evaluating an institution's performance against research-based Cognia Performance Standards. Using these standards, evaluators assess the quality of the learning environment to gain valuable insights and target improvements in teaching and learning as well as the operation of the institution.

To build a comprehensive evaluation of your institution, our experts gain a broad understanding of institution quality through a review of documented evidence, discussions with leadership, and community feedback. Using the standards as a framework, the report provides valuable guidance to help focus your institution's improvement journey.

Assurances

Assurances are requirements that accredited institutions must meet. The assurance statements are based on the type of institution, and the responses are confirmed by the Accreditation Engagement Review. Institutions are expected to meet all assurances and are expected to correct any deficiencies in unmet assurances.

Evaluations of Institution Analyses

Cognia expects institutions to use a systematic process to collect data and information using quality instruments and then analyze and synthesize that information to arrive at findings. From the findings, Cognia expects institutions to develop, prioritize, and implement theories of action that will sustain high-performing areas and lead to improvement in underperforming areas.

Cognia requires institutions to complete analyses on selected data sources. Each analysis is evaluated using rubrics aligned to the main activities within the analysis process.

Performance Standards Evaluation Results

Accreditation is based primarily on the evaluation of evidence that reflects an institution’s ability to meet the expectations as defined by the Cognia Performance Standards. The Performance Standards define the elements of quality that research indicates are present in an effective institution. Accreditation standards provide the guideposts to becoming a better institution. The Engagement Review evaluators apply a four-level rubric to determine the degree to which the institution demonstrates effective practices that reflect the expectations of the standard. The rubric scale is designed to indicate the current performance of the institution.

The rubric is scored from Level 4 to Level 1. Descriptions are provided in the table below.

RATING	LEVEL	DESCRIPTION
★★★★	4	Demonstrating noteworthy systematic and systemic practices producing clear results that positively impact learners.
★★★☆☆	3	Engaging in practices that provide evidence of expected effectiveness that is reflected in the standard.
★★☆☆☆	2	Developing or improving practices that provide evidence that effort approaches desired level of effectiveness.
★☆☆☆☆	1	Reflecting areas with insufficient evidence and/or limited activity leading toward improvement.

Cognia Performance Standards Ratings

Culture of Learning Standards

A good institution nurtures and sustains a healthy culture for learning. In a healthy culture, learners, parents, and educators feel connected to the purpose and work of the institution as well as behave in alignment with the stated values and norms. The institution also demonstrates evidence that reflects the mission, beliefs, and expectations of the institution (e.g., student work; physical appearance of the institution; participation in institution activities; parents’ attendance at institution functions).

Keys to Culture of Learning

A healthy culture is evident where:

- Stakeholders are actively engaged and supportive of the institution’s mission
- Learners’ academic and non-academic needs and interests are the focal point
- Stakeholders are included and supported

Leadership for Learning Standards

The ability of a leader to provide leadership for learning is a key attribute of a good institution. Leaders who engage in their own learning while tangibly supporting the learning process for learners and teachers have a significant positive impact on the success of others. Leaders must also communicate the learning expectations for all learners and teachers continuously with consistency and purpose. The expectations are embedded in the culture of the institution, reflected by learners', teachers', and leaders' behaviors and attitudes toward learning.

Engagement of Learning Standards

A good institution ensures that learners are engaged in the learning environment. Learners who are engaged in the learning environment participate with confidence and display agency over their own learning. A good institution adopts policies and engages in practices that support all learners being included in the learning process.

Keys to Engagement of Learning

Engagement is demonstrated when all learners:

- Are included in the learning process
- Participate with confidence
- Have agency over their learning

Insights from the Review

The evaluators engaged in professional discussions and deliberations about the effectiveness of the processes, programs, and practices within the institution to arrive at the findings of the report. Guided by evidence, the evaluators arrived at findings that will inform your institution's continuous improvement efforts. The findings are aligned to research-based criteria designed to improve student learning and organizational effectiveness.

The findings are organized into narratives around four Key Characteristics critical to the success of any educational institution: culture of learning, leadership for learning, engagement of learning, and growth in learning. The narratives also provide the next steps to guide your institution's improvement journey in its efforts to improve the quality of educational opportunities for all learners. The feedback provided in this Accreditation Engagement Review Report will assist your institution in reflecting on its current improvement efforts and adapting and adjusting your plans to continuously strive for improvement.

Culture of Learning

The school community is a cohesive learner-focused family of school leaders, teachers, and supportive staff. Al Adhwa Private School has a 20-year history of supporting students' comprehensive education in the United Arab Emirates (UAE). The school was established in 1994 by Hamad Saeed Ahmad Al Hassani. Al Adhwa Private School is located in an urban area of Alain, one of the largest cities in the UAE. The school is under the authority of the Department of Education and Knowledge for Abu Dhabi (ADEK). Al Adhwa Private School has a long-standing reputation as a school committed to high quality education, as it was first accredited in 2009 by NCA CASI/AdvancED. The school buildings are attractive and well-equipped with many facilities to meet student's needs including learning resources center/library, shaded and unshaded playground areas, basketball and football fields, science labs, ICT labs, and an art room.

The student enrollment at Al Adhwa Private School was 902 in 2019, but then declined to 821 due to the impact of the Covid-19 pandemic. Since 2021, the school has experienced an increase in enrollment to the present level of 972 students enrolled in grades Pre-KG-12. UAE nationals comprise approximately 60% of the enrollment while the remaining student population represents expatriate Arabs (Egyptian, Syrian, Lebanese, Jordanian, etc.). Based on evidence from the review the school is achieving its goal to promote learners' academic growth and well-being to achieve success for all students. Although the school represents many different nationalities, the team noted a supportive family atmosphere and healthy sense of community with all stakeholders devoted to learners' well-being and the school's mission. One student commented during an interview, "Everyone greets my parents with open hearts." Parents remarked during focus groups that the school is responsive to their concerns and communicates effectively through WhatsApp, social media, meetings, and via direct contact. The team recommends the school continue to engage stakeholders by using validated surveys to obtain feedback, analyzing data, and collaborating with stakeholders to advance the school's priorities.

Al Adhwa Private School actively supports teachers' professional growth and development. The primary focus for Al Adhwa Private School's professional development plan is "to engage teachers in planning for student success to enhance higher order thinking skills through specifically designed learning challenging activities." The team concurs with the Al Adhwa Private School plan to provide professional development for new teachers to guide their ability to meet the school's expectations for performance. The team also encourages the school to provide professional development that will enhance teachers' ability to use data, to plan, and optimize instruction to meet the needs of diverse students and promote achievement.

Leadership of Learning

During the Covid-19 pandemic Al Adhwa Private School demonstrated outstanding leadership ability through the on-going support provided to students, teachers, parents, and staff. During the COVID-19 pandemic, when instruction quickly transitioned to online learning for the 2020-2021 academic year, Al Adhwa demonstrated significant leadership. Documentation from the interviews showed that the school's ability to transition to online learning served as a model for both private and public schools in the region. During the challenging two-year period from 2020 to 2022 the school's governing board provided direct support to stakeholders and fully paid all teachers and staff.

Although the staff retention was notable during COVID-19, recruiting and retaining teachers has become more challenging for Al Adhwa Private School in the last few years. Government regulations have restricted increases in the tuition fees that private schools can assess, while concurrently there are significantly rising teacher salaries in local public schools. The increased salaries that local schools are offering has impacted teacher retention. The trend has contributed to unanticipated cases of teacher attrition in mid-school year while the school is simultaneously experiencing enrollment increases. The team recommends that the Al Adhwa Private School board and school leadership analyze staffing needs and develop a plan to recruit and retain teachers. Options to consider may include partnerships with teacher education programs and/or the utilization of international recruitment fairs to identify and employ qualified teachers for employment.

Al Adhwa has done a remarkable job in cultivating teachers' leadership capacity within the school. The school actively recognizes and provides staff with formal and informal leadership opportunities to support the school's mission. Evidence from interviews and documentation showed that several teachers have advanced to middle and senior leadership roles within the school. Student leadership is promoted through both the Al Adhwa Private School Student Council and by their participation in clubs, competitions, and activities, such as Entrepreneur Day, Cultural Day, and National Day. The school is encouraged to continue their efforts to promote students' leadership abilities from elementary through the secondary level.

Al Adhwa Private School students speak Arabic as their first language and English as a second language. The students have varying levels of English language fluency, from beginning learners as new students and in the early years' program to full academic fluency in the later grade levels. Al Adhwa Private School provides a comprehensive educational program that includes an American curriculum taught in English as well as instruction in Ministry of Education subjects taught in Arabic. Subjects taught in Arabic include Arabic language, Islamic studies, and Arabic social studies. The American curriculum comprises the traditional core subjects of English, math, science, and other subjects (ICT, Economics, Business, Geography and Public Speaking). The Al Adhwa Private School curriculum also provides instruction in French from grades three to six, and art education is provided in grades one to five. To further the school's goal in providing learner centered instruction and to meet the needs of English language learners, the team recommends research based professional development for all teachers and school leaders in second language acquisition. Moving forward, it will be important to use formative and summative measures to assess the effectiveness of the interventions.

The school's commitment to STEM education is evident through the ICT program of study (Information, Communication, and Technology) which is required for students in grades 1-12. Through classroom observations the team noted STEM activities are incorporated across diverse subjects to promote hands-on experiences, critical thinking, and problem-solving. To support the school's goal of achieving future Cognia STEM certification the team recommends the review of the curriculum to determine areas to further integrate STEM standards and extending the AP program to offer additional STEM related courses such as AP Computer Principles or AP Environmental Science.

Professional staff members at the school are encouraged to review and adopt curriculum standards that support the school's educational priorities. Based on interviews and the review of documents the team observed teachers have limited understanding of evidence-based content standards and largely use the standards that are published in the textbooks for their respective subjects and grades. The school is encouraged to formalize curriculum development and review processes that are based on professional, up-to-date, content standards and regularly assessed to ensure vertical and horizontal alignment, integration, and support the school's mission and vision.

Engagement of Learning

Al Adhwa School actively demonstrates the use of learner centered practices to promote student engagement and learning. Based on the review of documentation, classroom observations, and interviews the team observed that Al Adhwa Private School successfully employs learner centered practices that promote student engagement and long-term learning. The team observed teachers' exemplary use of technology, manipulatives, and collaborative grouping practices. Moving forward, the team recommends assessing curriculum alignment as well as on-going program evaluation to determine the adjustments that need to be made to ensure the continued effectiveness of the learner centered practices.

Based on feedback from the previous Cognia review in 2019 AI Adhwa made concerted efforts to upgrade computer labs, integrated digital resources into the instructional program, and provided professional development to teachers in the use of technology. Students use a variety of digital tools to gather, evaluate, problem solve, and create their own work. Moving forward the school is encouraged to review and adopt technology and the engineering design standards that show what students should know and be able to do at every grade level and advance the plans for developing the STEM curriculum.

Growth in Learning

School leadership needs to demonstrate improved ability to use data from a variety of sources and evaluate instructional programs to improve instruction and advance learning. The team observed the overall need to improve the analysis and synthesis of performance data to inform practice and establish improvement goals. While performance results were reported the data was aggregated and the narratives were focused on positive results and the subjects where students showed good performance. The team concurs with the school's goal to "Conduct a longitudinal analysis of student performance to identify patterns and trends over an extended period. This can provide insights into the effectiveness of long-term strategies and interventions." The team also recommends that the goals to enhance student learning should be explicit and stated in measurable terms in the multi-year school improvement plan.

Leadership is encouraged to provide opportunities for staff to engage in action research identifying instructional areas of improvement, collecting data, and reporting results to support learner performance. The use of action research can provide a platform for staff to identify the challenges they are facing and potential areas for improvement. As teachers are implementing the units of inquiry, project-based learning or using strategies to promote differentiation, it is important for staff to determine baseline data for current levels of performance as well as quantifiable intended outcomes to determine if the implementation of these strategies has had an impact on student performance.

The team commends AI Adhwa Private School for its commitment to student learning in a positive and supportive learning community. Many students, teachers, and staff mentioned during interviews that the school was a "family" and "home" to them. By moving forward in its continuous improvement journey, the school will continue to further its mission "provides excellence in education, prepare leaders for global society and strives to equip them with skills to build their future through creativity, innovation and determination."
